There is Plenty of Coal.

Every now and then some statistician with too much liver utter figures showing that the world's coal supply will make it only a few hundreds of years. Make-it many, many thousands. China has coal to burn—400,000 square miles of coal fields, some say. Japan has plenty more. Rumania has enough for the Balkan states if ever they stop burning powder and one another's houses. America's bin will be full for centuries on centuries. Great Britain and Germany will not be coalless soon. Let us worry about something else—Everybody's Magazine.

Tennyson's Prediction.

Tennyson predicted the day of his death. Just a year before his death friends of the poet were visiting Aldworth House. The late Lord Selborne turned to Tennyson and remarked, "You ought to be happy here." "Ah," sighed the poet, "I have only a year to live!" His hearers laughed at the remark, but it was a prophetic assertion that was verified to the minute.

AUTOMOBILE SOMERSET.

Greatest Thriller of the Age With Forepaugh-Sells Show.

Of all exhibitions of human daring ever seen, none can compare with the performance of Mile La Roque, the automobile somersetter, with Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus, which will be seen in Montpelier on August 10.

This reckless young French woman dashes from the dome of the tent in a heavy automobile down a steep tramway to within a few feet of the earth, where the track ends in a sharp upward curve, which throws the machine and rider high in the air, almost on a level with the starting point, after which it is dashed, wheels down, on a spring platform.

It is as perfect a somerset as was ever turned by an acrobat, and the ponderous machinery with a trail young woman at the wheel affords a picture of lunacy daring that thrills the spectator to the very marrow. After the machine bounds from the track on its upward course, and for the fraction of a second pauses in midair before making its awful revolution, there is an exciting moment of tremendous suspense that stays the breath of the watchers until rider and wheel land with a crash on the platform.

This is an age of thrillers in circus arenas, yet the sensational acts of the past pale into child's play before Mile La Roque and her death-inviting performance. The man who has the imagination to conceive nothing that could test to a greater degree the nerve and the recklessness of man. And the central figure of this masterpiece of human devilry is a frail girl.

In the few brief seconds required by this act there is more suspense and memory-lingerer thrills than can be squeezed out of the entire programme of any other circus. It is the greatest thriller of all ages. The Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus abounds this year in sensational acts. The million-dollar spectacle, "Fighting the Flames," that begins the performance is another single feature that no other amusement enterprise can duplicate. In its presentation 1,200 people, 500 horses, hundreds of vehicles, a battalion of 40 firemen with complete firefighting equipment and a trainload of scenery are required.

Tangled.

Frederick of Prussia had a great mania for enlisting gigantic soldiers into the Royal Guards and paid an enormous bounty to his recruiting officers for getting them. One day the recruiting sergeant chanced to spy a Hibernian who was at least 7 feet high he accosted him in English and proposed that he should enlist. The idea of military life and large bounty so delighted Pat that he immediately consented.

"But unless you can speak German the King will not give you so much."

"Oh! he jabs," said the Irishman, "sure I don't know a word of German."

"But," said the sergeant, "you can learn in a short time. The King knows every man in the Guards. As soon as he sees you he will ride up and ask you how old you are: you will say '27' in German; next, how long have you been in the service, you must reply, 'Three weeks,' finally, as to whether you are provided with food and clothes, you answer, 'Both.'"

Pat soon learned his German answers, but never dreamed of getting familiar with the questions. In three weeks he appeared before the King in review. His Majesty rode up to him, Paddy stepped forward with present arms.

"How old are you?" said the King.

"Three weeks," said the Irishman.

"How long have you been in the service?" asked his Majesty.

"Twenty-seven years!"

"Am I a fool or are you?" roared the King.

"Both," replied Patrick, who was immediately taken to the guard room, but pardoned by the King when the latter understood the facts of the case.—Ladies Home Journal.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Barre women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Barre woman's words:

Mrs. M. Gabel, 31 Brooklyn street, Barre, Vt., says: "I suffered terribly for two or three years with severe pains across my back and up my side. I had headaches and spells of dizziness and a distressing kidney weakness that compelled me to rise often during the night and thus disturbed my rest. The doctor gave me medicines but I received little benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills sold by E. A. Drown, the druggist. It was only a few days before I could see that they were helping me. The improvement was gradual and as I kept on taking the remedy I became better in every way. My kidneys became normal in action. I can honestly say that I never found anything that proved of such great benefit as Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MARSHFIELD

Among those quarantined for small pox are the following from this town: S. H. Umrin and family, E. W. Pitkin and family Orman Damerson and wife, Lyle Tucker, Mrs. J. B. Pike and Oscar Bemis.

Henry Dwinell lost his Scotch collie dog "Fannie" Thursday night and as he happens to know where she went would suggest a speedy return to save further trouble.

Raymond, son of F. G. Lamberton met with a painful accident last Thursday while at work in the mill. In some manner his hand came in contact with a saw severing the thumb and lacerating the middle finger.

No new cases of small pox are reported to date, although some are having sore arms as a result of vaccination.

Mildred the little daughter of Geo. O. Smith fell from a bag of meal last Thursday and badly sprained her shoulder but no bones were broken.

Services at M. E. church will be discontinued until further notice on account of the small pox scare.

CRUDE HOUSEKEEPING.

Domestic Methods in England in the Fourteenth Century.

Carpets were unknown luxuries in England in the fourteenth century, but the fashion of strewing the apartments with rushes was being gradually abandoned. Rushes were still used in the retainers' hall, but for the better rooms sweet scented herbs and fragrant twigs were usually employed.

Windows were apertures filled with glass so as to admit light, but to exclude wind. The walls also were frequently hung with cloth or tapestry to protect the inmates of the room from the many currents of air that penetrated the strong but badly built walls. We learn from various ancient documents that it was the duty of the serving men and pages to sweep out the principal apartments, but as the use of water is rarely mentioned damp and fragrant leaves and twigs must have aided not only in collecting the dust, but also toward refreshing the atmosphere in such constantly closed rooms, fresh air being only admitted through the doors opening on to the battlements or balconies.

From old inventories at Thurlough and elsewhere we ascertain how scantily furnished were these ancient mansions, although they seem to have been abundantly supplied with flags and drinking cups in gold, silver and finely engraved pewter, besides an infinite number of black jacks or cups made of leather.—London Standard.

Gems and Disease.

Many curious stories of the healing of blindness and diseases by gems are to be found in ancient works, and it is said that the Emperor Theodosius was cured of blindness by a stone of great brilliancy which was laid on his eyes. What this stone was history unfortunately does not say. The diamond, ruby, emerald and opal were supposed to warn the owner of danger by changing color. Pliny says of the diamond that it is not only an antid
